Artists who champion good causes

Carmen is a Spanish illustrator based in Madrid. She has received training both in the illustration and graphic design fields. She took her master's degree in children's illustration with the album "Lupo y Juancho" at Iconi. Carmen is passionate about children's World and pattern designing. She employs digital techniques because they allow her more freedom when it comes to drawing and filling a blank canvas with colour. Her influences comes from many illustrators across history and from different disciplines and fashions trends; although she loves literature and horror films, her illustrations ooze good vibes. An afternoon drawing while caressing her agaporni and listening to music from the '80s, seems like a good plan to her.
