Artists who champion good causes

Clara would draw on every single surface she could find (including some very unhappy tortoises) whilst growing up in the Seychelles. She always had a fond love for animals and creating characters with subtle gentle humour. Using a mixture of traditional techniques, ranging from monoprint to pencil, Clara enjoys creating narratives and images with a sense of place in limited colour palettes. After finishing her BA illustration degree at Falmouth University, she went on to complete a MA in Children's Illustration at Anglia Ruskin, which helped her gain inspiration and motivation as well as showcase her personal voice.
