Artists who champion good causes

Hello, my name is Gunja Bhatt, an illustrator hailing from India with a creative journey that has taken me across continents to the UK. Specializing in picture books and chapter books, my work combines traditional media like watercolors and inks with digital techniques to craft visually captivating worlds brimming with emotion and expressive characters. My passion for storytelling through art was nurtured early on by the enchanting allure of folk tales, Indian art, and animated cartoons, leading me to a fulfilling career as a senior illustrator and comic artist before transitioning into freelancing to chart a more personal creative path.
